Circular Exchange with Trustlines

The Trustlines Network is a community-driven project that empowers people to create their own money and access digital payments. Users can pay each other with a system of credits and debits. Trustlines is the ideal tool for payments in a circular economy, where value circulates so debts cancel out naturally.

Here are some suggested goods and services to exchange with Trustlines:

- Meal sharing, home-cooked meals
- Grocery shopping, errands, odd jobs
- Skill sharing (e.g. music, bike repair, tutoring)
- Transportation, carpools
- Childcare, eldercare
- Peer counseling
- Neighborhood watch
- Tool sharing
- Used clothes/furniture
- Overstock merchandise
- Surplus restaurant food
